

Who Are You

Tommy Walker

Who are You
How can I ever know or ever see
When all my reason has to bow down
To my heart, to my faith

To my mind You're only darkness
To my heart You're the light ever shining

I'm surrounded by things that tell me
You're just a lie, why even try
But my soul is ever longing
It somehow knows there must be more

Through the years I've heard Your whisper
Through my doubts I've heard You calling

I guess I'll try one more time
To think again, comprehend
And when my finite human mind can't
Grasp the rest, I'll just rest

In knowing there's someone greater
And that I'll never begin to fathom

Your mysterious Trinity, or Your Unapproachable Majesty
O how can it be?
I guess I'll just rest
And know You'll always be – God